Emergency Forms Available At Office Of Assemblyman

Assemblyman Bob Wood (R-Monterey County) has announced that emergency application forms for middle distillate fuels, (diesel, kerosene, home heating oil and jet fuel) are available in his Salinas district office. Because of the shortage of these fuels due to the energy crisis, the federal government has imposed controls on them through a mandatory allocation system.

The most common middle distillate fuel is diesel, which the California trucking industry and agriculture heavily rely on. To try and forestall shortages, the federal and state government are presently implementing a fuel allocation system for this type of fuel. At the present time natural gas and regular gasoline are not under any kind of mandatory allocation system.

Wood said, "the federal government announced a new priority list for the middle distillates. First priority is being given to the oil exploration business and other potential new suppliers of fuel. Next in priority is farm production to try and insure us a sufficient food supply in the future. The State is presently considering the commercial fishing industry in this category, although federal guidelines are still not clear. The third priority is for rapid transit -- to keep buses and trains available so people can avoid driving their own car and wasting badly needed gasoline."

The Monterey County Assemblyman, a member of the Assembly Transportation Committee which is holding hearing on the fuel crisis, met with the State Energy Coordinator and his staff about meeting emergency and hardship needs. The federal government through the Office of Oil and Gas Allocation in San Francisco is processing applications for new fuel allocations for new users and also applications for a higher allocation for those who need more than what they purchased last year. The allocation formula is based on last year purchases by wholesalers and those who buy in wholesale or tank truck lots, as many do in agriculture. For emergency situations and hardships, however, the State through the State Energy Coordinator is accepting applications for a gas allocation for up to 60 days.

Wood added that, "more and more middle distillate fuel users will be having trouble with their fuel needs. They must apply for a temporary allocation from the State, and also apply to the federal government for a new permanent higher allocation. Applications for both are available at our district office in Salinas, 32 East Alisal Street, and by calling at 424-1703. From the Monterey Peninsula residents can call toll-free Enterprise 15756."

Verna Sloan - A Woman Who Cares

Mrs. Verna Sloan has received numerous letters of Commendation and Appreciation and Sustained Superior Performance Awards. Sixteen years of her service have been in managerial or administrative positions. She presently supervises the activities of the Control Section, Finance & Accounting Branch in Post Services Division, for six years. She was formerly a Debit Manager for Mammoth Insurance Company of Louisville, KY, for one year, while her husband served a tour of duty in Korea.

For the past four years she has also volunteered her services as an Equal Employment Opportunity Counselor for the Fort Ord complex. She gained professionalism for this position by completing Equal Employment Counseling Programs at the 12th United States Civil Service Commission, San Francisco.

Her expertise in this field stems from the fact that she has handled 98% of the discrimination complaints at Fort Ord, and has been instrumental in the "upward mobility" of minorities by fostering better management-employee relationships, and changing ingrained practices of passing over minorities in promotion situations. She says there is written policy directing equal employment opportunity for all, in all job categories, but it is far easier to change a law than to change ingrained practices and hardened prejudices. She has attuned herself to the positions, aspirations, and interests of various minority groups within her community, through contact with minority leaders, and for the past several months has served as Chairman of the Program Committee for the Monterey Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. In this capacity she has presented programs to the racially mixed organization which she felt would help people of various ethnic backgrounds to understand "differences in people"

Christmas Concerts Are Set

The Monterey Peninsula Choral Society and the Monterey County Chamber Symphony, under the direction of Maestro Haymo Taeuber, will present the annual "MUSIC OF CHRISTMAS" concerts at Carmel Mission Basilica, Saturday, Dec. 8 and Sunday, Dec. 9, at 8 p.m.

Because the concerts are traditionally sold out, the Choral Society will repeat the concert on Sunday, Dec. 16 at 3 p.m. at St. Francis Xavier Church, 1475 La Salle Ave., Seaside, giving an opportunity for residents of other areas to attend. Many of those who would like to hear the concerts prefer to attend the three-o'clock afternoon event, and the concert at St. Francis Xavier Church will give them an opportunity to do so.

Those who heard the performance of "The Messiah" at St. Francis Xavier Church last Palm Sunday, will recall the beautiful acoustics in that sanctuary.

Maestro Taeuber had programmed the Bach "Magnificat" and "Psalm One-Hundred Fifty" by Heinrich Schütz, for the Choral Society, with soloists Norma Jean Hodges, Soprano; Glenna de Weese, Contralto; James Hull, Tenor, and John Miller, Bass.

A group of Christmas Carols from many lands, especially arranged by Maestro Taeuber, will also be performed by the Chorus. Maestro Taeuber was for many years the director of the Vienna Boys Choir.

For ticket information, see the advertisement in this issue.

Public Hearings On Minimum Wage Proposal Are Announced

Public hearings on the first increase since 1968 in the State minimum wage, proposed by the Industrial Welfare Commission, will be held in Fresno, November 28, 9 a.m., 2550 Mariposa Street, Room 1036 in Los Angeles, November 29, 9 a.m. 107 South Boradway, Room 1138; in San Francisco, November 30, 10 a.m. and 7 p.m., 455 Golden Gate Avenue, Room 1194.

The Commission, empowered by the State legislature to establish minimum wage rates for both men and women, is proposing to raise the present rate of $1.65 an hour to $2.00 an hour for adults.

Minimum wage for learners or apprentices would be increased from $1.60 to $1.80, and the rate for minors (under 18 years of age) and full-time students from $1.35 to $1.70.

The new minimum wage order would apply for the first time to household workers. Baby-sitters are excluded.

Fourteen State wage boards, appointed by the Industrial Welfare Commission, following meetings throughout 1973, recommended increases in the State minimum wage ranging from $1.85 to $2.20. The Fresno public hearing will be adjourned briefly at 1:30 p.m. for a meeting at which the Commission will appoint members of a Consolidated Wage Board to make recommendations on overtime pay and working conditions.

The evening session was added to the San Francisco public hearing by the Commission in response to requests from working people who said they were unable to participate in the weekday meetings.

Members of the Industrial Welfare Commission are Theodore J. Todd, Chairman, Edward M. Curran, Stanton D. Elliott, Mike R. Elorduy, and Joyce Valdez.

MPUSD Buses Have Fuel To Mid-December

Monterey Peninsula Unified School District buses have enough diesel fuel to run until mid-December, after which the picture is uncertain, trustees were told recently.

Supt. James Harrison told the board that the severity of cutbacks in bus transportation will depend on the severity of the diesel fuel situation.

Depending on how much fuel is available, the district may have to consider cutting out or limiting field trips, not supplying fuel to Monterey Peninsula College and the Pacific Grove Unified School District, eliminating "late" buses that handle students involved in after school programs, park buses at their destinations all night instead of returning them to the yards and even cutting out transporting teams of athletic events, according to Mel Isenberger, business manager.

Isenberger also noted that some recreational busing could be stopped, and the district might even consider reducing home to school busing as a last resort.

All these possibilities are being looked at, and figures on mileage and fuel consumption are being gathered, he said.

The administrators said no major cutbacks will be made without first discussing the situation with the school board.

Harrison said the district's gasoline supply is so far untouched by the energy crisis. The problem is, however, that most of the district's bus fleet runs on diesel fuel.

In discussing the energy crisis, Harrison told the board that he is encouraging teachers and students to come up with ideas to save fuel and electricity.

He said he would like to see the crisis turned into a learning situation for the students. One suggestion has been to have students help devise a local school "energy plan" and then monitor energy consumption to find out if the plan is working, he said. Students could check meters each month and report to the rest of the school about how much energy has been consumed, for example.

Harrison said he has directed principals to set thermostats at 68 degrees. He is also distributing guidelines outlining ways schools can cut down on other energy uses. Because of heavy vandalism in some areas, certain schools will be burning more lights than others at night, Harrison said. But some schools will be left nearly dark to save electricity, he added. Schools and offices are being asked to turn off unneeded lights. Employees and students are being asked to form car pools, and Harrison has ordered a 50 mile an hour speed limit for all district vehicles.

The superintendent said the district will also be considering elimination of night-time athletic events and meetings.

Faces Around the Bay

This jolly little man is not a Monterey Peninsula resident, but he is well known by all residents of the area. He visits our cities but once a year, but he is probably the most popular visitor we get. Remember, kids of all ages, he will be visiting you personally, although you may not actually see him.

NEWS

By

SSG R. Cardwell
ARMY RECRUITER

Hello everyone,
Photography has always been a popular avocation among men of leisure. For many, however, it is an exciting and profitable business. Photography involves much more than just taking pictures. Skillful portrait photographers, for example, take pictures which not only are natural looking and attractive, but which express the personality of the individual. Photographing sports and other news events also requires special skills. Photographers must know quite a bit about lighting, angle and distance. They must also know a great deal about the capabilities of the different lenses.

Perhaps no one group of people knows more about lenses and their limitations than the people who make their living preparing them. It is estimated that over 150,000 Americans supported themselves and their families by repairing cameras last year. Many of these were employed in private industry.

Employers generally want applicants to have either a strong demonstrable aptitude for this kind of work or some experience. A high school diploma is usually a must.

TODAY'S ARMY can provide young men and women interested in camera repair work with professional instruction and valuable on-the-job experience. Those who qualify are sent to the U.S. Army Signal School at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey. There they are trained by experienced professionals. The course runs 15 weeks and provides enlistees with the working knowledge needed to maintain and repair still and motion picture cameras, press type cameras, between the lens type cameras and focal plane type cameras.

After completing advanced individual training at Fort Monmouth, enlistees travel to the installation they selected prior to their enlistment. This may include hundreds of installations all over the world.

Many ex-servicemen have discovered TODAY'S ARMY training to be invaluable when searching for that first job after leaving the service.

For more information concerning job opportunities in the ARMY, please contact us at 1010 17th St., Monterey, or call 372-4742/372-4743.

Fort Ord, HLMR
Get Grants For Construction

Fort Ord will receive $9,812,000 and Hunter Liggett Military Reservation, $7,776,000 under the military construction appropriations bill (H.R. 1439) for fiscal year 1974. Congressman Earl W. Holt (12th District, California) announced in Washington, D.C., recently.

Take The
Toy Test

Right or Wrong? A child is safe with an Army toy since it's only a toy.

Right? Wrong? U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission injury figures are projections. They are collected from hospitals, Electronic Surveillance System, hospitals, which indicate that in fiscal year 1972, nearly 518,000 injuries associated with toys, tricycles and baby strollers were treated in hospital emergency rooms.

U.S. data do not include injuries treated at home, in doctors' offices, health centers, school health facilities, or other direct hospital admissions.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, created by Congress to reduce the number of injuries to consumers, has banned 1,500 dangerous toys. Manufacturers are prohibited from selling banned toys, and they are forbidden to sell a banned toy under penalty of law.

Even a child's favorite toy, however, may be dangerous. Parents should keep an eye on what is played with. Toys should be used properly.

Mr. Talcott was the minority floor manager for this legislation. He fought for the inclusion of the Hunter-Liggett appropriation following its deletion by the authorization Committee when the bill was first reported to the House. Congressman Talcott reminded the Membership at the time that service men assigned to Hunter-Liggett are engaged in very important research, development, and testing activities; however their living facilities are almost totally inadequate. Congressman Talcott called this requirement, "... one of the most important items in the budget and is considered one of the highest priorities of the Army."

Coast Guard Warns Boaters

According to the U.S. Coast Guard, carrying passengers for hire on board a boat is illegal without a Coast Guard issued license, and can result in a fine of up to $1,000 and/or seizure of the vessel.

"Carrying passengers for hire" is defined as receiving any money or other compensation from the person or persons carried. Any person operating any vessel propelled by machinery and carrying one or more passengers for hire must also be licensed by the Coast Guard for both performing that service and for the area where the vessel is operated.

It is also illegal to carry more than six passengers on a boat that has not been inspected and certificated by the Coast Guard in addition to the required operators' license. All licenses and certificates of inspection must further be displayed on board the vessel.

For further information or registering complaints or registering complaints of the U.S. Coast Guard Marine Inspection Office, San Francisco, should be contacted by telephoning (415) 556-8860.

C of C Progress Report

by Verlaine Crawford

Frank Murphy, Jr., Assemblyman of the 31st District will be attending our next Board of Directors Meeting on Thursday, Dec. 6, at the Chamber 8 a.m. The reapportionment plan enacted by the Supreme Court will have the effect of his being a representative of our portion of Monterey County. He has offered to visit our meeting and meet the members of the Seaside Chamber.

Members and non-members are invited to attend the meeting on the 6th to meet Mr. Murphy. The Installation of Officers of the new Board of Directors of the Seaside Chamber will be held Tuesday, December 11th, at the Fort Ord Officers Club. Cocktails will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner served at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to come, but I must know how many are coming by December 3. Price of dinner, including wine and tip will be $5.50.

I have been visiting several service clubs and schools recently talking about the Chamber of Commerce and what we do. It is amazing how many people are unaware of the many functions of the Chamber. Actually, it's not that amazing, because I, too, was unaware until I got involved in this business. I always thought the Chamber was just a place to get maps.

It is true that the Chamber's major function is to serve as an information center for the City of Seaside. We provide information on business statistics, on all kinds of economic data. We also give out information on clubs and organizations, schools, city operations, many things that residents and businessmen might be interested to know.

The Chamber Committees include Business Development, Membership, Community Development and Government Affairs, a Youth Committee, which is looking at starting a Junior Achievement Program, Military Affairs and Finance.

The Chamber's main job, as far as I'm concerned, is to act as a Public Relations firm for our community. We help in forming a good image. We get news out about our community and develop pride in the citizens.

The Chamber of Commerce is the businessman and woman of our community at work in our city. It is the voice of the community; and through the communication of residents, city government and business, we can do great things.

Your Mayor Reports

by Stephen E. Ross

Mayor Dolan is on vacation, (Thanksgiving), and I am fillin in for him this week.

Last week the Mayor talked about the Association of Monterey Bay Area Governments, (AMBAG) and its relationship to local governments with respect to our continued participation in it. As the official representative from our Council who serves on the Board of Directors of AMBAG, I shall continue that discussion, especially as it relates to Transportation. It was the Local Transportation Commission (LTC) issue that caused the decertification of AMBAG by HUD, (among other things).

State law requires that the Secretary of Business and Transportation Agency designate the Agency to be responsible for regional transportation planning. The agency to be designated in accordance with the law must be a statutory agency, a council of governments, or a local transportation commission. The law also requires that each regional transportation planning agency prepare and adopt a regional transportation plan by April 1, 1975. By 1976, (January 1, 1976) all regional transportation plans must be incorporated into a State transportation plan.

If a county elects to form a local transportation commission (LTD) within a region where there exists a council of governments, (such as AMBAG), the law provides that that particular LTC be designated as the transportation planning agency (statutory agencies excepted). The designation would not be made, however, until a memorandum of understanding is executed between the LTC and the council of governments outlining the responsibilities of each.

According to Mr. Frank J. Walton, Secretary of the Business and Transportation Agency for the State of California, a memorandum of understanding was executed on December 27, 1972, with AMBAG that outlined their responsibilities in transportation planning. It also gave AMBAG the authority to designate certain responsibilities to the member LTCs. Basically, the memorandum of understanding provided that AMBAG would be responsible for coordination and review of transportation planning to the respective LTCs. The agreement was between AMBAG and the California Business and Transportation Agency. That agreement authorized AMBAG to execute memorandums of agreement with each of the LTCs.

Memorandums of understanding (or agreement) were executed with Santa Cruz and Monterey LTCs, (separate agreements). San Benito County chose not to execute such a memorandum of understanding with AMBAG and therefore has not been designated as the transportation planning agency. That county has not received Transportation Development Act (SB 325) funds, or funds for transportation planning. (Not yet).

At the time the memorandum was executed with AMBAG, the County of San Benito was not a member; Hollister and San Juan Bautista were, however. The two cities withdrew from AMBAG before signing any agreement. We understand that San Benito County and the cities within that county intend to form a single county council of governments. They will then request designation of the council of governments as the transportation planning agency for that county, pursuant to the Transportation Development Act. (I expect it to be approved).

Monterey and Santa Cruz Counties LTCs have already been designated as the transportation planning agencies for their respective counties responsible for carrying out transportation planning and adopting a transportation plan pursuant to California law. (They are statutory agencies, and could do this because they are members of AMBAG). This does not preclude AMBAG from playing a meaningful role in this whole process. A memorandum of understanding is being drafted by AMBAG that will define the role.

Prior to finalizing the memorandum of understanding, Mr. Walton has indicated that his office will require concurrence from the LTCs of Monterey and Santa Cruz Counties, with certain concepts. Out AMBAG Board of Directors must also agree with the memorandum.

The language of the memorandum of understanding is expected to entail the following concepts: (According to Mr. Walton).

1. "A policy of board for AMBAG responsible for areawide review and coordination, and a policy board for each LTC responsible for transportation planning within the LTC."

2. "All State and Federal funding for transportation planning to pass through AMBAG to the Agency responsible for performing the work in accordance with the unified work program."

At the meeting of October 12, 1973, I indicated my desire to see such concepts put into action (TO CLEAR THE LOG JAM), especially Item 2 above.

As most of you know, I am a strong believer in

As I See It

by Mel Vercoe

Our Monterey Peninsula is running out of water; fresh water, not salt water. There is enough if we don't bring in any more people, but we have to bring in more people. Some people think we will perish if we do not keep expanding our local economy, and maybe they are right. At any rate there is a big push to somehow scrape up enough enthusiasm and money to invest forty million dollars in a new dam on the Carmel River. The projected dam could store up enough rain during our short rainy season to supply twice our present population. A minor crisis may occur somewhere along the line, because the dam will not come into use until about the same time as the population had doubled, twelve years from now. Beer and wine sales may be expected to skyrocket during the last few years of that waiting period, because we will be running out of water, period, about two years from now, and I suppose volunteers will be asked to drink substitutes such as beer so that small children can have water.

So, at approximately the same time the dam is completed we will again be running out of water even with the new dam, and there won't be any more, no matter how many dams we build, and it will be a sad awakening. The problem by then will be magnified many times over with twice as many people clamoring for water, and at least twice as many realtors and builders and lumber salesmen and bank presidents trying to pass bond issues to manufacture water out of air so they can keep on making money. In the meantime all the extra people will mean twice as much partly treated sewage dumped into the ocean, twice as much air pollution from auto exhaust to add to the oil burning exhaust from Moss Landing. We will also have twice as much ground covered with freeways, twice as many wall-to-wall apartment complexes and only half as many trees.

One proposal for financing this dam is to raise everybody's water rates by two and a half times, which is hardly fair except for the owners of new apartment houses and other developments who stand to benefit. It does nothing for elderly retired couples on fixed incomes, for example, who are already being taxed and priced out of existence. So, in general, when it comes to a vote, if we still have that privilege when that time comes, the people who do not stand to gain will oppose the dam, and almost everybody who makes a living off tourists or building or selling real estate or loaning money, etc., will be enthusiastic about building it.

That is human nature, of course, and under our representative pretense at a democracy the majority should rule, no matter what, so if those who think more highly of the Almighty Dollar outnumber those who think more highly of other things and who recognize the folly of compounding what is already a serious problem, then that is the decision we must learn to live with, or die with, as the case may be.

Cabrillo and Individually Guided Education being tried at Manzanita. All three, she said, have been tried and validated as "sound, workable educational practices" that can be used in all the schools.

Students in the ESEA programs got more than one month's learning growth from each month's instruction, she said, noting that this is what is needed to help disadvantaged youngsters catch up.

According to Dr. Henry Hutchins, assistant superintendent for instruction, schools currently run programs for gifted youngsters, with four more grades than at the intermediate level (grades 4-6). He said the district will focus on strengthening the compensatory education program for these grades.

According to the report, last year the district spent nearly $81,000 in federal funds working with about 350 primary students, about $83,000 for 600 intermediate students and almost $50,000 working with 200 junior high students in target schools. Most of the funds have gone into reading programs, according to the report.

In a report dealing with programs for mentally gifted students, resource teacher Donna Lewis said nearly 900 such students will be involved by the end of this school year. She said 22 of the district's schools currently run programs for gifted youngsters, with four more grades than at the intermediate level (grades 4-6). The district receives money from the state to identify and operate programs for gifted students, taken generally from the upper 2 percent of the student population.

A SACRIFICE OF ECONOMY for COMFORT

We are presenting a different type of SALE

for the next 10 days at
BEATTIE FORD

We have selected 19 cars that fit the category of comfort vs. economy.

We have used a computer to show the actual miles difference for the average family — and it proves beyond all doubt that you can have comfort and economy too, on one of these 19 cars.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

We have cut the price of each car, so that it represents a saving of enough money to buy gas for 1 or 2 years (approx. 12,000 miles per year) showing the savings against a small economy car is more than represented by the reduction in price to start with.

Toy Alert Service Available

The State Department of Health will again offer a "Toy Alert Service" to parents and others in California concerned about choosing the right holiday gifts for children. The service was inaugurated last year, in cooperation with federal officials, to insure that toys being sold in California meet state and U.S. safety standards.
"The state's food and drug inspectors are in the field now, recording and handling questions and complaints about toys and other gifts as part of our broadening consumer protection program," said J.M. Stubblebine, M.D., director of the California health agency.
"We urge parents and all those buying toys this month and in December to be aware of possible hazards and to consider the age of the child in selecting a gift."
He said "Helpful Hints in Choosing Safe Toys," a checklist for consumers, is available from offices of the State Food and Drug Section. Locations are listed in telephone directory white pages, under "Consumer Complaints and Protection Coordinators, Foods, Drugs, Hazardous Chemicals." On the reverse side of the checklist is a consumer product complaint form that may be returned to the state for appropriate action.

Dr. Stubblebine said the department also will make available to major retailers copies of a list of some 1,500 toys banned by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. He said health officials throughout California are cooperating with the federal agency and the State Department of Consumer Affairs in making the public more aware of hazards from poorly made toys. Also, spot checks of stores will be conducted to determine the level of compliance with state and federal laws.
"The public generally and even many retailers are unaware that a 1971 state law prohibiting sale of dangerous products includes under hazardous substances any toy or article intended for use by children that presents an electrical, mechanical, or thermal hazard," Dr. Stubblebine said.

Violations of the law can bring a fine of not less than $25 or more than $500, and up to six months in jail. However, retailers have been cooperative in removing banned toys from their shelves, and the law has seldom been invoked.

The toy alert service in 1972 netted 140 banned items and 60 toys of doubtful safety. During a two-week period before the holidays, the department received 137 calls from worried consumers, Dr. Stubblebine said.
